TWENTY QUESTIONS AND A PILE OF MONEY LATER --

WHIPPERSNAPPERS

MR. VACUUM Bloobstutter, general manager of the United States Hole-Making Corp., looked at the two piles of letters on his desk and his receding chin (what little there was of it) quivered.

"Oh, dear, I am on the horns of a dilemma!" he exclaimed.

"Why don't you sit on a chair. It's much more comfortable," said the stuffed owl, perched on the bookcase, eyeing Bloobstutter owlishly.

"Good suggestion, S. O.," agreed Bloobstutter, shoving the dilemma into a corner and seating himself on a swivel chair.

"Golly, I wish I hadn't eaten so much lunch," said the owl, burping. "I shouldn't have had that second helping of Charlotte Mouse."

"You're eyes are bigger than your stomach," said Bloobstutter. "No wonder they call you a stuffed owl. Why don't you take some soothing bicarb and quit bothering me. I'm busy."

The owl began to pout and sulk. "I'm not appreciated around here," he said. "Nobody cares whether I'm sick or well, living or dead. Some stupid old raven learns one word, 'Nevermore', and they write a whole poem about him. Me, I got a vocabulary like a Quiz Kid and all they say to me is 'Shaddop!'"

Bloobstutter looked up at the owl and said, "There, there. I didn't mean to hurt your feelings."

The owl continued to pout.

"Go on," he said. "Holler at me if it makes you feel better. I don't give a hoot."

VACUUM BLOOBSTUTTER, at heart a kindly little man, got up from behind his desk, walked over to the bookcase, and patted the owl on the head.

"S. O., you know I didn't mean it," he declared. "It's just that I'm a little upset and irritable, I've got so many problems on my mind. Being the general manager of a hole-making corporation is no soft snap. Why, sometimes I feel as tired as Atlas, carrying the hole world on my shoulders."

"What's wrong now?" asked the owl. "Perhaps I can help you. After all, some people are kind enough to say that I'm wise."

"You see that stack of letters?" asked Bloobstutter, pointing to the correspondence piled on the right side of his desk. The owl nodded. "Well," continued the man, "every one of those letters is from carnival customers, complaining about the size of the holes in those rings they toss. You know the game—ring-a-cane and win a prize. They all say the holes in those rings are too small."

"Hmff! Is that all?" exclaimed the owl. "Why that's no problem at all. All you have to do is make the holes larger. It's simple."

"Not so simple," replied the man. "You see that other stack of letters? Those are all from the men who run the ring-a-cane games. They say the customers win too many prizes. They say the holes in the rings are too large!"

The owl was silent.

Bloobstutter looked at the bird quizzically, then said, "Well?"

"I'm not saying anything," replied the owl. "When I don't know the answer, I don't say anything. That's why they call me a wise old owl."

"That's all well and good for you," retorted Bloobstutter, rather testily. "You don't have the reputation of the United States Hole-Making Corp. to worry about. If a bunch of doughnut holes came out square, you wouldn't lose a wink of sleep. Birds don't know anything about hole-making."

"Izzat so?" the owl came back. "My cousins, the Woodpeckers, were in the hole-making business before you were born."

BLOOBSTUTTER couldn't answer that, so, taking his broom, he left his office. Naturally, you'd be surprised to see an executive of a big company carrying a broom. Lots of people were surprised to see Bloobstutter doing it, although the habit no longer caused his employees to turn their heads. They had become used to seeing him with his broom always beside him and put it down to the eccentricities of a great man.

(Please turn to next page)

Once a reporter interviewing Bloobstutter had asked about the broom and Vacuum had stammered, "Why I—ah—just keep it as—ah—a sort of habit." But the reporter had written, "Mr. Bloobstutter keeps an old broom with him at all times. It is his symbol of democracy, his torch of the common man. It reminds him that in America even a humble broom-pusher can rise to the heights and become the king of a hole empire."

Vacuum had let the explanation ride. It saved him a lot of explaining. But of course, it was far from the truth. Actually it was a magic broom that got him out of all sorts of difficulties. He had inadvertently found it when an old witch lost it. Accidentally he had learned that the broom would do almost anything for him if he simply made a wish in rhyme. A wish such as he was making now, standing outside his office building saying,

"To the carnival now
I'll go—

I wish it—so it must be so!"

Phweeeeeeet!

THE broom whisked him from the office building and high in the air, then dived downward at the outskirts of the city, putting him down on a big lot where a gaudy carnival was in progress. A ferris wheel was carrying squealing passengers high in the air, a merry-go-round was playing last year's popular tunes and dozens of barkers were yelling about side-shows, lucky wheels, guess-your-weight and all the other dozens of delightful things that make up a carnival.

"I must find the ring-a-cane game and see whether the holes in the rings are really too large or too small," thought Bloobstutter. "I wonder which way it is?"

He saw a barker yelling about knocking off milk bottles with a baseball. Bloobstutter walked over to him and said, "I beg pardon, sir, but could you tell me which way—"

Before he could finish, the man thrust three baseballs into his hand and said, "Yes—sir! Try yer skill. Knock the milk bottles down. Here y'are pop. Show 'em how. That'll be ten cents."

"But I only—" Bloobstutter started to protest.

"It's only a dime, bub, get it up," hissed the man. "Don't be a cheapskate. Gimme the dime."

A crowd had gathered around and Vacuum, naturally a shy man, handed over the dime. Holding his broom in his left hand he muttered to himself, "I wish I could throw this ball clear through the back wall."

He threw. The ball knocked down a whole pile of milk bottles and then went screaming on through the heavy canvas wall at the back. The crowd cheered. The man running the game was angry. Somebody in back of the wall yelled ouch!

Saying, "Oh dear, I didn't mean to do that," Bloobstutter walked away fast, soon losing himself in the crowd.

AFRARED to ask anyone else, he searched half-an-hour before he found the ring-a-cane game. There were several people tossing rings, trying to get them over the canes and win a kewpie doll. But they couldn't do it. The little hoops bounced, clattered, and fell beside the canes, and not around them.

Bloobstutter pushed his way up to the counter and said in his hesitating voice, "Er—may I see one of those rings. I am Vacuum Bloobstutter, general manager of the United States Hole-Making Corp. We manufacture the holes in these rings."

"Hear that?" cried one of the customers who had just tossed a dozen rings unsuccessfully. "He's the villain. He makes the holes in these rings. And he makes 'em too small. It's a gyp. Let's get him, fellas."

Shouts of "sock him, lynch him, hang him, beat him, bash him, whack him, pulverize him" broke out.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!" cried Bloobstutter in alarm. "I came here personally to test the holes in these rings to see if they really are too small. Let me test them. If they're too small I can assure you we'll fix them."

The mob agreed, grudgingly at first. Some of the men, who had been tossing rings all day without winning anything, were all for socking Bloobstutter at once. But the majority said, "Let him try to ring something. Let him see that those holes are too small. And if he can't ring-a-cane, then we'll wring his neck!"

VACUUM BLOOBSTUTTER picked up a handful of rings in his shaking right hand. With his left he held onto his magic broom. To himself he said, "Oh, I've got to ring those canes or they'll knock out all my brains." He began tossing rapidly and every ring settled surely and securely over a cane. When he had ringed a dozen, he turned calmly to the crowd and said, "See, all it takes is practise."

The people were then satisfied, but the carnival man would have beaten his brains out because he had just won his best and most expensive prize. But Bloobstutter jumped on his broom and flew away. "Lincoln was right," he thought as he zoomed along, "You can't please all the people all the time."

MEDICAL TABLET DISCOVERY!

SAFE, NEW,
EASY WAY!

SIMPLE SAFE TABLET DOES IT

DRY-TABS is the same safe medical discovery that is prescribed by many doctors. Now, it is available for the first time without prescription to all the victims of BED-WETTING who long to rid themselves of this distressing habit once and for all. DRY-TABS is safe, not habit forming, contains no harmful drugs—Follow simple directions.

"DRY-TAB THERAPY" Eventually Allows BED-WETTING Victims to Function Normally Without Further Medication

DRY-TABS, in most cases, does not offer merely temporary stopping of BED-WETTING. In cases after case, as revealed in clinical tests conducted in hospitals by medical scientists, the DRY-TABS formula proved itself to be a tablet that gives direct support to the patient in controlling his BED-WETTING. The benefits of the DRY-TABS formula may be expected to be effective beyond the period when it is taken regularly. It helps the BED-WETTING victim to restrain, tends to increase strength of sphincter and detrusor muscles controlling urination. Many cases have discontinued the use of DRY-TABS after a short time and found they were functioning normally. So BED-WETTING victims do not have to be slaves to any kind of medication if their case is of the type that responds to the re-training power of DRY-TABS. This is probably one of the greatest advancements ever made in BED-WETTING therapy. Yes, once DRY-TABS stops BED-WETTING, its use may no longer be required, normal functioning and control may be developed almost miraculously. So don't hesitate a minute longer. Order DRY-TABS Today!

DRY-TABS Amazing Formula Effective in 75% of Cases

CASE NO. 1. Healthy, intelligent boy, 9 years old. BED-WETTING since infancy. Child could not break habit. All other medication failed. DRY-TABS formula taken for two three-week periods. Child has remained well for the past three years.

CASE NO. 2. Normal boy, history of BED-WETTING since infancy. Child had no organic defect. Various cures failed. Put on DRY-TABS formula regimen. After a month, habit suddenly stopped.

CASE NO. 3. Male, aged 23 years. BED-WETTING since birth. Many forms of treatment failed. Unable to accept invitation to sleep out over-night. Recently married, and embarrassed by habit. After formula taken, wet bed the first two nights but never since that time.

CASE NO. 4. Girl, aged 6 years. Wet bed since infancy. Nervous, irritable. DRY-TABS formula administered for regular period. BED-WETTING stopped almost immediately. Slight relapse. Formula administered again. Child responded immediately once more, and history reveals no further relapse.

CASE NO. 5. Man, 42 years old, wet "heavily." Medication started. Wet during second week and continued to wet while on medication. No response for following week. Restarted after rest period, and after five-day treatment seemed to retain control of bladder function.

CASE NO. 6. Woman, 74 years old. DRY-TABS formula administered for 6 days. Improvement, upon withdrawal of medication, improvement remained. Continued gradual return of control. One year without formula and control is adequate.

But now the disgrace and danger of BED-WETTING can be very easily be a thing of the past with amazing new DRY-TABS. At last, medical science has discovered a safe, new, easy way to stop BED-WETTING without electrical devices... without rubber sheets, alarms or special diets and without interrupting needed sleep. DRY-TABS, in easy-to-take tablet form, does away with BED-WETTING as painlessly, easily and simply as swallowing an aspirin. Now, for the first time, safe DRY-TABS can be obtained without prescription.

DEVELOPED AFTER YEARS OF EXTENSIVE HOSPITAL AND CLINICAL RESEARCH AS REVEALED IN MEDICAL LITERATURE

The discoveries of science, many times, are brought about by indirect means. Take the case of the exclusive DRY-TABS formula. Medical practitioners chanced upon this formula while they were investigating a remedy for another illness. Noting the remarkable effect that this formula had upon BED-WETTING they concentrated their efforts on this new data and developed the formula to its present state of perfection. The result is the new DRY-TABS, a remarkable tablet that has brought new hope to thousands of tormented victims of BED-WETTING. Before this formula was released to the public, it was tested in clinics and hospitals by medical scientists on controlled groups of patients. The DRY-TABS formula is the result of thorough medical research, the same kind of research and care that is given to any product that is to be placed in the hands of the public. Chalk up BED-WETTING as one more ailment that has been conquered by the men of science. Think of it, no expensive electrical devices, cumbersome rubber sheets, special diets or mechanical alarms.
